Submarines Striking Aruba Are Believed Sunk By U.S. Airmen

Oil Slicks Indicate Some of Axis Craft Are Destroyed; Tankers Are Torpedoed.

BALBOA, C. London Fears Nazi Drive by Way of Turkey

Travellers' Accounts Tell of Sea Invasion Plans in Occupied Zones.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LONDON, Feb. 16.—While the desert armies in Libya, on the western flank of Suez, maneuvered toward what appeared likely to be another major battle, the port of a coming German storm through Turkey on the other flank appeared in reports reaching London today.

From Turkey, more on guard now than ever, came travellers' accounts saying that the Germans in Bulgaria, Rumania, Greece and the captive Greek islands almost within a stone's throw of the Turkish shore, were assembling pre-fabricated pontoon-type invasion barges, building concrete barges, gathering fleets of little motor-sail boats, rushing airports to completion and noisily practicing disembarkation tactics from rafts.

Private reports reaching London mentioned increasing concentrations not only of fighters and bomber aircraft in Nazi-held southeastern Europe, but also of air troop transports and Stukas.

The same sources said the Italians were building at Genoa two huge mercantile submarines similar to the German Deutschland, which visited the United States during the World War, possibly with the hope of establishing trade with the Far East if the Suez Canal can be seized.

Available clues to Hitler's plans indicated the Germans might intend merely to hold their line in north and central Russia while co-ordinating a drive through Turkey with an attack on the Caucasus.

The British also were preparing actively for a new blow. While encouraging a settlement of Egyptian government troubles which have brought the Wafdist, or Nationalist, party to the fore, they Battle for Australia Now Under Way, Curtin Warns.

By The Associated Press.
A drastic housecleaning by Prime Minister Churchill in Britain's war cabinet with some leading ministers to be swept into discard, was predicted in informed circles last night as an aftermath of the Singapore disaster, the channel humiliation and defeats in north Africa.

Churchill is believed to have decided upon this action, these informants said, after consultations which convinced him of the fury of an aroused and critical house of commons.

Some predicted he would dismiss A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, and War Secretary H. D. R. Margesson in an attempt to still criticism during commons' impending three-day debate over conduct of the war.

Oil Slicks Indicate Some of Axis Craft Are Destroyed; Tankers Are Torpedoed.

BALBOA, C. Z., Feb. 16.—Lieutenant General Frank Andrews, United States commander of the Caribbean defenses, said tonight there were indications that American airmen sank some of the German submarines whose torpedoes crashing into two small tankers at the Dutch island of Aruba early today sent 24 seamen to a flaming death.

General Andrews and his aide, Captain Robert Bruskin, were in Aruba on an inspection tour and were jolted out of their beds about 1:30 a. m., when the torpedoes struck in the harbor.

"Flames were shooting straight up and seemed mountainous," said Captain Bruskin, in telling of the scene he and the general saw as they rushed toward Nicholas bay.

General Andrews said American planes stationed on Aruba and the near-by island of Curacao to aid the Dutch garrisons immediately took off and that oil slicks on the water some distance from the smashed ships were indications that the submarines were hit.

A stream of tracer bullets or shells flashed over the head of General Andrews and Captain Bruskin as the Nazis sought to hit the Lago oil refinery ashore.

"We figured there were 10 or 15 shots," the captain said. A torpedo which General Andrews said was of German make was found ashore. It was 18 feet long, and had missed its target.

Two men were known to have been killed, and 15 others were missing from one of the tankers which exploded and sank almost immediately. Seven were missing from the second ship, and in addition 18 men were hospitalized.

General Andrews also said that the raiders struck again at 3:15 a. m., sending one torpedo into a sea-going tanker of American registry, but that ship was not sunk and none of its crew was injured.

Herbert White, an Associated Press photographer who was with the American officers, said that at daylight the officers found the fragments of apparently 4-inch or 6-inch shells in the refinery yard.

Tankers Attacked.
Happening in Aruba overnight on an unscheduled but customary inspection, the general was awakened about 1:30 o'clock this morning when two tankers anchored outside Nicholas bay were attacked.

He said they were small, shallow-draft ships used for carrying oil.

ginning of the battle for Australia. "On its fate," he added, "depends not only the fate of this commonwealth but the frontier of all the Americas and in large measure the fate of the English-speaking world."

So heavy was the barrage of critical remarks in London leveled at the government that some members of parliament predicted Churchill would be forced to make a complete cabinet reshuffle, dropping among others Lieutenant Colonel J. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, minister of aircraft production; Arthur Greenwood, minister without portfolio; and Ernest Bevin, minister of labor, to lesser posts.

The prime minister himself is in real danger of defeat, one member declared. There were others in London who said "Churchill and the entire government may be forced to go." These opinions by no means were confined to opposition members in the house.

Parliamentary observers found Churchill at first loath to realize the strength of the opposition generated by the British setbacks. It was understood he persisted at the beginning in the belief that the

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(P)—The "probable destruction" of an enemy submarine off the east coast by an Army plane whose 21-year-old bombardier said he "prayed to God and then let her have it" was disclosed today by the Army air force.

"I saw the sub first," said Private Donald J. Raher, 21, of Indiana, Pa. "I didn't have much time to sight . . . The lieutenant ordered me to open the bomb bay and to arm the bombs."

"Then about 200 feet in front of the sub I let her have it. I salvaged all our bombs and prayed to God. It all happened so fast I could barely think."

The disclosure was made at Governors Island when six members of the plane's crew were awarded letters of commendation.

Oil Slicks Observed.
The Army said that the bombs were dropped from 1,000 feet and that one of them exploded near the hull of the submarine. An oil slick 50 feet in diameter appeared on the surface and was followed by a second slick a few moments later.

The time and location of the attack were not given.

The Army also revealed that the B-25A bomber, commanded by Second Lieutenant Louis M. Abernathy, of Arkansas City, Kan., opposi'on was generated solely by his "enemies" and not by an aroused nation.

But at length he was said to have been convinced that his criticism represented national demands, especially, after they were joined by Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger J. B. Keyes, whose disclosures in debate over the Norwegian fiasco helped overthrow the government of the late Neville Chamberlain.

As a result, when commons debate develops, Churchill is expected to announce his willingness to reconstitute the government in answer to demands for an investigation of what happened at Singapore.

Political observers said that dissatisfied members of parliament would renew demands for a small war cabinet of ministers free from departmental duties, but that they also would go further in asking changes in the present cabinet personnel and the fixing of blame for the fall of Singapore and the escape of the German flotilla through the channel.

RAF Member Is Accused in London Deaths

Soldier Held as Suspect in Three Blackout Murders.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—(P)—A sweeping search by more than 200 Scotland Yard detectives resulted tonight in the arrest of a man identified as a member of the Royal Air Force from a near-by base—for the Jack-the-Ripper slayings of at least three women during London blackouts.

They declined to disclose his name until he is taken into Bow Street police station tomorrow and formally accused of fiendish mutilations that killed women ranging in age from 30 to 45.

He was described in the morning papers as a 28-year-old member of the RAF.

Sir E. Teindal Atkinson, director of public prosecutions, directed that the charge of murder be placed after consulting the droves of Scotland Yard men set out to solve the spine-chilling murder mystery of the blackouts.

Their investigations reaped evidence in the slayings of Mrs. Margaret Florence Lowe, 43; Mrs. Doris Jouanet, 32, and Mrs. Evelyn Oatley, 30, but Scotland Yard declined to speculate as to whether the suspect killed three other women in blackouts since last October.

Edgewood Bridge Closed by Rains

Traffic over Edgewood avenue bridge was halted by police last night after heavy rains caused a washout under the west end where workers had been repairing a cave-in which occurred last fall.

Firemen examined the structure and reported it "dangerous" and Mayor LeCraw ordered both street car and automobile traffic stopped.

Atlanta was drenched with nearly an inch of rain last night and yesterday. Nearly three inches fell in Adairsville, Ga.

Streets in East Point were heavily washed, many basements in Decatur were reported filled. A 4,000-volt power line fell on Ponce de Leon avenue.

The weatherman predicts showers will cease this morning and colder weather is in prospect today. Yesterday's temperature extremes were 48 and 61 degrees.

Greatest Voluntary Self-Destruction Is Recorded in Indies

At Least Seven Vessels, Five of Them Crowded Transports, Crippled by Allied Defenders.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Feb. 16.—The great oil center of Palembang on Southern Sumatra, producer of 50 per cent of the total petroleum output of the whole of the Dutch East Indies, fell to the Japanese today—but fell in flames set off by the defenders to consume the principal immediate loot sought by the invader.

Not in six months, it was estimated here, would it be possible for the enemy to set the fields flowing again, and his thrust, for all its success, cost him enormous casualties and at least seven vessels crippled by American-British-Dutch bombs dropped over the Bangka strait just east of Palembang. Two of the ships were cruisers; five were laden transports.

Nevertheless, successive communiqués both from the Dutch command and from the Allied high command for the southwest Pacific told a story of increasing gloom.

$100,000,000 Fire.
Though Palembang's oil was lost to the invader in a $100,000,000 fire that represented perhaps the greatest single voluntary self-destruction of national property in history, it was lost also to the United Nations, as had been the supplies of Balikpapan and Taranakan on Borneo Island. Lost, in fact, was substantially all the production of all these islands.

Strategically, too, the Allied position grew gravely worse as the enemy continued to lard in force about Palembang, for that city lies but 269 air miles from Batavia, the heart of the Allied war effort on Java Island. There were indications that the attack upon Java itself even now was in preparation.

It was disclosed tonight for the first time, in a radio address by H. V. Quispel, a Dutch naval spokesman, that not only the Palembang oil field but those in northern Sumatra as well had been razed—the latter without publicity.

"Japan prepared for this war for many years," Quispel added, "counting on being able to replenish her oil supplies by capturing oil wells in the Netherlands Indies. But the Dutch have made this calculation go awry."

Tenacity Is Factor.
"The Pacific war has now assumed the character of the war in Europe. It has become a war in which tenacity will be the principal factor. Japan may gain many victories but the Mikado's ministers will henceforth have to look to the future with great concern."

"It is true that Japan's power is enormous, and perhaps it is equally true that only a miracle can save the Netherlands Indies, but miracles do sometimes happen. Even if we in the Netherlands Indies, like the men and women of London, Leningrad and Moscow, are forced back to the last defense lines, we shall win."

In southern Celebes Island savage fighting continued uninterrupted around the area of Macassar port. How this action was going generally was not known here.

The island of New Guinea, far to the east, was again brought back into the active theater with Japanese bombings of an unstated point on which "great damage" was acknowledged.

Bataan Peril Grows With Singapore Fall

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(P)—Singapore's fall put defenders of the Philippines on the alert today against a shift of Japanese air and other forces from Malaya to the Manila bay fighting front.

Resumption of the attempt to bomb Corregidor into helplessness was viewed by qualified military observers as a possible result of the release of the Japanese forces which conquered Singapore.

Enemy bombers abandoned the air attacks on the Manila bay fortress a month ago after approximately a score of planes taking part in successive raids had been shot down by anti-aircraft gunners.

The fall of Singapore likewise released Japanese artillery and tank forces which may be used in a drive to crush the defenders of the Bataan peninsula.

Heavy artillery fire in Bataan today signalled an apparent Japanese attempt to knock out the hard-hitting American field guns which have helped hold the foe at bay.

The enemy artillery has been hammering away steadily in the last 24 hours, the War Department reported. Enemy war planes have been spotting the effect of the firing and blasting at American guns and their crews with bombs.

The latest turn of the Philippine struggle, viewed as another preliminary to a renewed full-scale offensive against General Douglas MacArthur's little army, was keenly watched by official observers because of the defenders' effective use of artillery in smashing previous attacks.

Big American 155-millimeter field guns and lighter 75-millimeter artillery have maintained an apparent superiority over the foe ever since MacArthur's men retired to the Bataan peninsula stronghold following the loss of Manila.

Until some batteries are silenced or overwhelmed by Japanese reinforcements, a renewed offensive faces the same risk of being served as the previous half dozen or more major attacks.

Opposition Voiced To Unemployment Benefits Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Governors of six states firmly opposed today a proposed $300,000,000 program of unemployment benefits for workers displaced by wartime industrial conversion. Some of them said it would put a "premium on idleness" while others asserted it would impede the war effort and infringe states' rights.

Brazilian Envoy Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Officials of the Brazilian embassy announced tonight that Arno Konder, minister-counselor of the Brazilian embassy, who has served in this country during the recent years of intensified Brazilian-United States economic rapprochement, died at 4:30 this afternoon from cerebral hemorrhage.

Konder became ill on Friday. Brazilian and United States diplomats agreed that he had been overworking for a number of months. The State Department immediately proposed to send the distinguished Brazilian body to his homeland by military plane, probably later this week. The date of departure will depend upon arrangements made with Ambassador Carlos Martins, of Brazil.

Good used bikes are in demand. They put cash in your hand when offered through the Want Ads of The Constitution.

The told the House Ways and Means Committee that even though the problem might be more acute in some states than others, all states should be able to increase their unemployment compensation benefits without the aid of the federal government.

While the Governor were voicing their protests, President Roosevelt discussed the legislation with congressional leaders at the White House. Afterward, House Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, said Mr. Roosevelt wanted it passed quickly because the situation soon would become "acute."

"America cannot afford to put a premium on idleness at this hour," Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, chairman of the National Conference of State Governors, told the committee.

Stassen said most of the nation's Governors believed the administration plan would "injure and impede the war effort at this critical hour" and suggested, as did his colleagues, that it might handicap the nation's farmers "at a time when they are facing constant requests for them to raise their quotas."

Governor Herbert O'Connor of Maryland expressed fear that the legislation would be a "stimulus to idleness" and would make difficult, if not impossible, the retention of farm labor.

1,000 Attend 'Victory Ball' For Red Cross

$3,000 Raised Through Dance, Bringing Total to $305,000.

Atlanta's huge "Victory Ball" last night brought receipts in the city's Red Cross war fund drive to approximately $305,000, but a "clean-up" campaign of collection will continue until the quota of $320,000 is reached, Oby T. Brewer, chairman, announced.

In spite of rain, more than a thousand Atlantans turned out for the celebration at the municipal auditorium, at which 13 local bands played, society girls performed an original "Victory Dance," and Helen Perry, selected last week as "Miss Victory," paraded, wearing the crown jewels of Portugal and half a million dollars worth of assorted gems.

Officials estimated about $3,000 was raised through the dance. Several hundred men in uniform attended as guests of the Red Cross drive committee.

The "Victory Dance" was originated especially for the occasion. Mrs. Perry was guarded by a corps of Marines as she wore the jewels.

On the basis of pictures recently made and sent to New York, John Robert Powers, the model bureau head, Friday wired her an invitation to come there to model for him.

Red Cross Chairman Brewer said volunteer workers would use extra effort to complete Atlanta's quota in the present fund drive as quickly as possible.

Speed in Merchant Ship Launching Seen by April

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Maritime Commission said today that the merchant vessel building program would reach a rate of two launchings a day by late April or early May.

The present rate is one a day, the commission said in a statement, but in order to turn out approximately 1,800 ships in 1942 and 1943, called for by President Roosevelt, a production rate of three a day must be attained. This peak probably will be attained late this year and early in 1943.

oil from Venezuelan fields. One was sunk and the other wrecked otherwise, he reported.

The submarines then fired at the refinery of the Lago Oil & Transport Company.

"A few shells at the refinery went over us," he said.

He said there were no American or Dutch casualties ashore and that the conduct of the populace was orderly and calm.

Captain Bruskink gave this description of the attack:

"At 1:30 a. m. an explosion knocked me out of bed. The others likewise were jarred from their beds."

"I looked out the windows. Flames were shooting straight up and seemed mountainous. The ship just seemed to break apart."

"Flaming oil spread over a wide area under a steady wind. We all dashed outside. I could hear gas out in the water which I learned, were badly infested with barracuda."

"Several boats put out but the flames held them back. Some crewmen of the vessel who attacked immediately after the attack managed to reach shore."

"Just then I noticed a second ship about a hundred yards away also was afire. Then there came a stream of tracer bullets from the dark of the ocean."

"We figured there were 10 or 15 shots, apparently aimed at the refinery—probably 37 or 40-mm. shells."

"However, no fires were started. Just as this excitement was subsiding—it now was about two hours later and flames on the water were still spreading—we heard another explosion upshore and learned this morning an American tanker was torpedoed at her pier. A hole was blasted all the way through one bunker but it was empty and did not catch fire."

Reports from Aruba said three tankers were attacked there and a fourth off Curacao, another Dutch island east of and slightly south of Aruba. The latter, although heavily damaged, reached port.

Three of the tankers were attacked at Aruba and the fourth off Curacao, another Dutch island east and slightly south of Aruba. The latter, although heavily damaged, reached port.

The submarine broke into the Caribbean through the outer screen of American and Allied bases protecting the Panama canal.

This first attack of the war upon the eastern coasts of the Americas—almost certainly the assailant was German—occurred within about 700 miles of the world.

Both Aruba and Curacao are garrisoned by British and American troops sent there to aid the Dutch garrisons in upholding Dutch sovereignty in the western hemisphere.

The two islands were once estimated officially to produce a third of the Allies' supplies of high octane (aviation) gasoline.

Swedish Ship Torpedoed and Sunk in Atlantic

38 Lives Lost in Attack a Month Ago, News Agency Says.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Swedish motorship Yngaren has been torpedoed and sunk, apparently in mid-Atlantic with an indicated loss of 38 lives, the American Swedish News Exchange said today.

The agency said only two men were saved from the 5,246-ton ship—sunk about a month ago—and that no trace of six passengers and 32 crewmen had been found.

(A London report of February 14 told of the rescue of the two Yngaren seamen after they had drifted for one month on a life raft. They were spotted by an RAF plane 200 miles west of Scotland.)

The ship was neutral Sweden's 129th loss, although Swedish ships travel under safe conduct passes from England and the Axis nations and submit to contraband searches at designated points.

General Peyton Reassured of Defense Power

Council Rejects Proposal for Adding Others to Civilian Group.

Brigadier General E. G. Peyton's designation as sole commander of municipal civilian defense activities was confirmed yesterday by city council when that body declined to increase the membership of the Municipal Defense Council to include labor, business, merchant and women's leaders.

General Peyton's exclusive control over all defense was continued as council refused to pass a proposal by the Atlanta Federation of Trades, which would have added others to the defense council.

The move would have increased the number of members and might have affected policies. Councilmen John A. White and James E. Jackson Jr. said.

At the same time, Mayor LeCraw, a non-union councilman, said he would lead a council committee seeking war industries for Atlanta, asserting a city in the east with a population of only 25,000 persons has procured more industry than the whole state of Georgia.

Other members of the procurement group are Councilmen Howard Haire and J. Allen Couch, Alderman L. O. Moseley and the mayor, who will serve as ex-officio members.

"It is obvious there has been too much wrangling about the site for the Bell Aircraft plant," Moseley said. "I hope the committee can find out just what is deferring action and eliminate it."

The department said farmers could purchase the seed peanuts either for cash or by signing notes for later payment.

Lilly, the Cat With a Bankroll, Again Can Feast on Milk, Liver

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Lilly, the wealthy cat, once again can have all the milk and liver she wants.

Her fortune, tied up in litigation for several months, was made available today through appointment of a new trustee.

Lilly inherited $5,000 from her mistress, Miss Annie Hansche, in 1938. Miss Hansche's will directed that a trustee be appointed and that $50 a month be allotted for care of her pet.

The trustee, C. H. S. Bidwell, died last November. Lilly's income stopped. Today Superior Judge Peter J. Shields named Bidwell's widow—who has been feeding Lilly—as trustee.

The cat's bank balance is $2,686.

Wassermann Will Litigation Tests Urged Is Settled by Supreme Court

SAID NEXT STEP IN PROTECTING CAMPS FROM DISEASES.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Quimby Melton Jr., editor of the University of Georgia student newspaper, Red and Black, urged today compulsory Wassermann tests for all university students as "the next step in protecting students from venereal disease."

The Red and Black has led a campaign for elimination of houses of prostitution in Athens.

Melton said City Police Chief E. Weldon Wood had promised prompt closing of three houses specified by the Red and Black editorial board.

In an editorial, Melton said that President Harmon Caldwell had expressed deep concern over the matter and pledged all aid in seeing that the "red light district" was suppressed.

Pending developments in the police drive, Melton said, the Red and Black was withholding "sensational evidence naming the houses and giving their addresses."

"The next step in protecting students from venereal disease," Melton said, "is to make Wassermann tests compulsory to all university students. President Caldwell expressed sympathy with this plan."

"At a time when physically strong men are needed by the nation, it is indeed admirable that the city and university authorities have moved to ascertain that dread venereal disease will not creep upon students."

Music Is Seen As Morale Builder

Sing, whistle or hum to keep up morale for the duration of the war, Americans were advised yesterday by Mrs. John B. Guerry, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs.

Speaking at St. Augustine, Fla., before the South Atlantic district meeting of the National Federation of Music Clubs, Mrs. Guerry said:

"Sing more. If you can't sing, whistle. If you can't whistle, hum. It is up to us to prepare, carry on and make cheer for our families. We must personalize music and share it with others. Music has a definite part in building clear heads, strong hands and strong hearts necessary for a victorious war effort."

Will Not Block Repealer Move, Says Ramspeck

Congressman Declares He Will Continue To Back Measure.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck
yesterday issued a statement on the congressional retirement bill and asked "The Constitution" to print a portion of it.

In his statement, Ramspeck said
in part:

"It is not my purpose to do anything to prevent the house from voting upon the question of repeal of the provisions of the recently enacted law providing annuities for elected officials.

"However, I do not intend to vote for repeal. To do so would be contrary to my sincere convictions.

"I am now and always have been willing to risk my personal interests in defense of my convictions on public questions.

"I realize, of course, that my convictions as to this matter may be wrong. I do not quarrel with those who think I am wrong. I only ask a fair hearing from them
—and fair consideration of the facts.

"This is no new question. In 1939 Senator Bankhead had a study made by the Railroad Retirement Board, as to retirement for senators and congressmen. It was printed as a senate document.

Stricken From Bill.

"In the summer of 1939 the house considered a bill, in which such a provision was included. It was stricken from the bill after considerable debate.

"The recent bill was first introduced on February 19, 1941.
The original draft contained the following language:

"Section 3. (A) This act shall apply to all officers or employees in and under the executive, judicial and legislative branches of the United States government, all elective or appointive officers in or under the said branches, and to all officers and employees of the municipal government of the District of Columbia;

"This language was never changed or amended. It was not a 'joke' as charged by The Atlanta
Constitution in its editorial of January 27, 1942.

"Hearings on the bill were held by the Civil Service Committee on June 3, 4 and 11 and August 23,
1941. The public and newspaper
reporters attended these hearings.
Articles appeared in the papers
about it at that time.

"It is possible that a few members of the house may not have known that the bill was on the consent calendar on December 1, but it was their duty to know. But I do not see how any member could have been uninformed of the senate action.

Approved by F. D. R.

"After considerable discussion
during which I was questioned regarding the bill and its application to members of congress, the senate amendments were agreed to by unanimous consent. Any member could have objected. I wonder where those who now claim ignorance were on that day?

"On January 24, 1942, the President approved the bill.

"There have been so many inaccurate news stories and editorials on this subject that it is impossible to answer all of them.

"However, it is not true that the cost of the bill is $30,000,000. The cost is $19,000,000 and that covers 300,000 persons, most of whom receive small salaries. The congressional feature costs only $80,000.

"It is not true that the bill fails to give employees increased annuities. Their contributions are increased from 3 1/2 per cent to 5 per cent and their annuities will be increased.

"The statement in The Atlanta
Constitution that I had voted against an increase in salaries for postal employees is not true.

"The statement that I could retire next January and receive $1,478 a year as long as I live is not true. I could not receive any sum at all if I retire next January.

"It is not true, as stated by The Constitution, that the 'pensions'
for congressmen would be paid from funds contributed by federal employees. Under the law contributions of employees are credited to the individual account of the employee. It cannot be used to pay an annuity to any other person.

Speaks of Expenses.

"Ralph McGill refers to the fact that we are furnished with an office, secretaries, light, heat, the franking privilege and a stationery allowance. That is true.

"Is it not also true that every public official is also furnished with like facilities? Is it not true that The Constitution furnishes McGill with equivalent facilities?
Of course it is.

"Last year I spent my mileage pay and $350 additional on trips between Atlanta and Washington.

"McGill failed to tell you that we have to maintain two homes.
My rent here costs me $1,800 per year. Many members pay more.

"Our income taxes are higher than the average businessman with the same income because we cannot deduct for expenses incident to our occupation.

"It is not true, as stated by Ralph Jones in The Constitution, that I said the provisions of the bill would lessen the likelihood of members accepting graft. I never intimated any such thing because I do not believe any member would accept graft. I did say it would help members to resist political pressure groups. I think it would."

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 17, 1942.

Cotton and the War

Due to the effects of war on a worldwide scale, and the imminent demand for cotton, its products and by-products, the southern director of Agricultural Adjustment Administration now advises farmers to increase production by planting 2,000,000 more acres this year than last. "It would not surprise me in the least," he said, "if allotments were increased before the war ends."

Another agricultural expert, Dr. Clarence Dorman, head of the Mississippi Experiment Station, predicts a cotton shortage in the United States because of the domestic war drain and lend-lease commitments abroad. And "we need more cottonseed meal for the increased production of meat, dairy and poultry products," he said. "We need more lint for explosives, and already there is a shortage of jute, sisal, henequen and other coarse fibres."

Inasmuch as farmers planted 4,000,000 acres less than the allotment in 1941, it would seem to be more reasonable to advise putting every available legal acre into cultivation in 1942.

The reason for this is perfectly plain. Every cotton-producing country in the world has been, or is likely to be, ravished by actual fighting before the war ends, except the United States; and fibre, no less than metals, is an essential war material, as well as a peacetime necessity.

And consider the matter from the angle of the by-products. From the seed of each 500-pound bale of cotton comes in the neighborhood of 400 pounds of meal for fertilizer and stock feed, 225 pounds of hulls for fodder, 146 pounds of oil to go into the making of shortening, soaps, glycerine and other indispensable, and 77 pounds of lint, invaluable in the manufacture of synthetic goods for the home as well as for making explosives.

A shortage of fats has already arrived. The usual vast supply from the Orient has been cut off indefinitely. Soap will very likely be added to the growing list of rationed articles. Stock feed has never, at any time, been too plentiful in Georgia, much of it for years having been brought into the state from the midwest to feed an ever-growing domestic cattle industry.

Now is the time to act. Every legal acre of the state's allotment should be put into cultivation; and the program of diversification, which has gained such headway, should move along even faster with the ever-increasing demand all over the world for every imaginable kind of food product.

The Public Leads

Extremely encouraging are the results of the recent Gallup Poll on the willingness of American workers to permit sizable pay deductions for the purchase of Defense Bonds.

While legislators continue to search for "painless" methods to finance the war, the public apparently once again leads the way with its offer to permit ten per cent pay deductions for bond buying.

While the public's willingness to make sacrifices to this extent may come as a surprise to many legislators, it is no surprise to those who have followed Gallup surveys, which have time and time again shown that the American public is far ahead of its legislators on most matters of legislation, and that the public is willing to make more sacrifices than its leaders suppose.

Two-thirds of all full-time employed persons polled were in favor of the ten per cent wage deduction to buy Defense Bonds; fifty-four per cent would permit even fifteen per cent deductions. And most of those opposing the pay-deduction plan either were purchasing bonds with ten or fifteen per cent of their incomes or were in favor of voluntary bond buying.

In times such as these, when totalitarian leaders are attempting to build their social structures on a distrust of the common man and his opinions, such indications of progressive, active and unselfish public opinion do much to bolster faith in democracy.

Realism at Last

British diplomacy is untangling itself from traditional positions under the realities of Axis hammer blows. The invitation extended India to representation in the imperial war cabinet and the Pacific war council should secure for the empire a greater co-operation from that great country in meeting the grave danger threatening the entire east and middle east.

The co-operation of India in prosecution of the war is essential if it is to be successfully conducted. From the east the Japanese are hammering at Burma and to the west the Nazis are massing their might for a drive which conceivably could meet the Japanese in this land of untold wealth.

The wholehearted co-operation of India possibly can avert such a union of the might of the Axis powers. Possibly it is too late. Certain it is that India's full assistance should have been obtained two years ago when war was declared, and that it now is sought and recognition now is granted only in the face of disaster is not heartening.

Many things must be done which in the past would have been deemed impossible. The full settlement of the Indian question is but one of these things.

The Chinese—whose generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek, evidently had a hand in the Indian question—must be given greater weight in Allied councils. Disclosure of refusal of Chinese help for Singapore is one of the blackest spots of military and political blundering to come out of the present war. Nations which have lost heavily to the Japanese must be willing to learn from those who have been able to absorb his blows and bring him to a cold halt, without the great resources the Allies are marshalling.

The nations fighting the Axis are off the luxury liner now and there isn't any first, second, third or steerage class in the lifeboat.

The Welders' Side of It

A recent strike of independent welders in shipyards at Tacoma, Wash., brought down a storm of protest from one end of the country to the other; justifiably so. The yards are loaded with war orders and the work must go on at all costs.

But this walkout was unlike most of the others that have choked down production of essential war materials. Instead of a united demand for higher wages, it came about as a protest against dismissal of a number of welders for non-payment of dues to the boilermakers union—affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; and the self-righteous attitude of the union in breaking the strike contributed little toward clearing the air of labor union iniquities.

Over one thousand welders are said to have struck as individuals. They have no union despite their number and indispensability in modern industry and war work. They are not permitted to have a union of their own. They are denied that right—not by the industrialists, not by the federal government, but by the American Federation of Labor due to jurisdictional strife.

To stay on the job—a privilege every American has the right to demand—they must pay dues to some local labor organization. In this instance they are forced to join the boiler-makers union and fork over whatever is demanded of them or be dismissed from the job; in New York it is another union, in Chicago still another and so on. It is a known fact that some welders have been forced to join as many as twenty-five different unions, from time to time, to be eligible for a job in this free country.

It is high time that the two national labor organizations rectified this iniquity within their own ranks. The welders have been given a dirty deal and everybody acquainted with the situation knows it. No evidence has been forthcoming to indicate that they are less patriotic than other workers. But much evidence has been found to indicate they haven't been given the same privileges.

Georgia Editors Say:

THE SOUTH AND THE WAR

(From The Valdosta Times)

The south, according to most observers, is "hotter for war" than other parts of the nation. Certainly it is true that this section leads in the percentage of enlistments in the armed forces. But this does not mean that the south is bloodthirsty, or that southerners are anxious to be plunged into a conflict that is costing billions of dollars and may cost thousands of lives and the destruction of much property. There are a number of explanations offered as to why this section seems more ready and willing to engage in the conflict.

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, argues that the south's attitude is "due both to superior character and to exceptional intelligence of the problems involved."

Others insist that the south, being predominantly Anglo-Saxon, is more deeply concerned with the preservation of the rights and liberties for which our forefathers fought.

Senator Lister Hill, of Alabama, suggests that "southerners are more belligerent, not just about the war, but about everything that pertains to their rights and their country."

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

THE BLOW IS BITTER WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Loss of the British fortress of Singapore is a bitter blow which, as Prime Minister Churchill has said, may prolong the war a year or even more.

The full extent of the injury done the Allied nations' cause depends on the ability of the Japanese to follow through. If they are able to extend their victories over Sumatra, Java and other islands in the Dutch East Indies group, the weight of the blow will be infinitely greater. Military authorities point out that India, the Indian ocean, and the important Far Eastern supply route to Russia would be threatened. Australia and New Zealand fall in the shadow of the same dark threat. Burma and China are vital parts of the broad picture.

If Sumatra and Java are held, the effects of the Singapore victory are somewhat neutralized. Without them, naval experts say, Japan can never enjoy the full fruits of the victory. Her naval ships and submarines would be denied a free movement in the area.

Allied bases close by would offer the constant threat of counter-offensive action to recapture both Singapore and the Malaya Peninsula later on when our forces can be assembled.

Most government sources agree, therefore, that a final appraisal of the Far Eastern blow cannot be made until some days later. There is no disposition to minimize the loss. It is bad enough at best. But its full significance will not be revealed until the fate of the Dutch East Indies is determined.

WHY IT WAS UNDEFENDED How the British Far Eastern fortress, one of the strongest in the world, came to be less defended is told in simple words of Mr. Churchill. In his London broadcast of Sunday he said: (1) That he had never been able to convince himself that Japan could commit the irrational act of precipitating war with the United States and Britain; (2) that at the time he and President Roosevelt met in the Atlantic last August "it seemed our duty to do everything in our power to help Russia."

As a result of that, he added, "we had no means of providing effectively for the new war with Japan."

In other words, the supplies and reinforcements which otherwise would have gone to Singapore at the first sign of trouble in the Far East were diverted to Russia, which is still the most crucial battle front of the war.

The only thing we can assume is that there was not sufficient time, after the "irrational act" committed by Japan, to send proper reinforcements to Singapore. It takes six weeks for a convoy to get out there. The war is little more than two months old.

But what of those being sent? It is no longer a military secret that vast reinforcements are on the way. Both the American and British governments have proclaimed as much. Some of our own are known to have arrived already. At least we were revealed that an American force had landed in New Zealand.

Here again we must assume that Allied reinforcements were diverted elsewhere from Singapore. Perhaps it was found military wise to direct them to a secondary defensive concentration point rather than to the besieged fortress, which looked doomed the moment the Japanese occupied the lower tip of the Malayan Peninsula.

TWENTY-YEAR PLANNING Something may be heard of the Japanese plan to extend their victory to the Netherlands islands group.

One thing to be remembered in measuring our present setback was pointed out by the Prime Minister in his Sunday speech: "The warlords had been scheming and looking forward to this war for 20 years, while we and our neighbors were talking perpetual peace."

For the past year the Japs are now known to have been making the most intensive preparations for the drive they launched on December 7. Neither the United States nor Britain dreamed they actually would dare do such a foolhardy thing.

While it is no longer possible to underestimate the efficiency of the Japanese war machine, it is obvious now that their Far Eastern victories so far have been the product of treachery rather than skill or potential superiority. They merely mimicked Hitler's tactics of lulling to sleep and then striking unawares.

There can be no doubt of the ultimate outcome once we shed our complacency and get down to the business of organizing our resources and manpower.

Gas Masks

For Civilians.

There was a picture in The Constitution last week, on Thursday I think it was, of Commissioner David C. Lamb, retired, of the Salvation Army.

Commissioner Lamb has been stationed for many years in London, and now, his days of active service over, is on this side of the Atlantic.

That picture showed the Commissioner wearing a British civilian gas mask.

The type issue to every one in Britain, including newborn babies, is the gas mask.

breathed in them, and once while we had our pictures made in the things. They are hot, uncomfortable and fear-inspiring to the best of us. I'd have to have to wear one for six hours—doubt if I could, gas or no gas.

Purt Your Name On Box.

It was advisable to put your name and address of the box containing your pictures made in the things. They are hot, uncomfortable and fear-inspiring to the best of us. I'd have to have to wear one for six hours—doubt if I could, gas or no gas.

But anyone seen on the street without a gas mask swinging at the hip looked as peculiar as a person only half dressed, after you grew accustomed to seeing them.

When we went on board the Aquitania at Southampton, to come home, they asked us to deposit our masks in a large receptacle on the pier, before embarking. We did so, and when we got aboard, as soon as we were aboard ship, I was to be fitted again and I wondered why they just didn't let us keep the ones we had. It would have saved trouble.

The day before the ship reached New York, they again asked us to give up our masks. Feeling safe and easy at last, we gladly did so. Though a few thoughtless ones did hide theirs in their baggage, to keep as souvenirs.

Knowing, however, the constant danger under which men, women and children were living, and knowing that the mask I had carried might some day save an innocent life over there, my conscience wouldn't permit me to hold on to mine.

Someday, perhaps, we'll all have to carry the masks over here. Quite expensive, providing them for 130,000,000 people. And take quite a lot of rubber, too. But, if Britain could do it for 40,000,000, I guess the United States can do it for 130,000,000.

BESSIE CURRAN.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Chicago CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The rivalries of the Chicago Tribune on one hand and the Daily News and Marshall Field's new morning paper, the Sun, on the other, are an interesting public disturbance, in the heart of the middle west.

Chicago papers seem unable to stick to the newspaper business. They always try to control the mayor, the state's attorney, or county prosecutor and the Governor and even the senators and some representatives. They promote amateur prize fights and all sorts of public spectacles and their political and other extra-curricular activities inevitably create obligations which newspapers are free to forget.

The Tribune, under R. R. McCormick, has been fiercely anti-New Deal ever since the NRA, and was just as angrily isolationist until anti-New Deal, but has accepted the war with grace and vigor but without shirking its duty to criticize incompetence, venality, mistakes or misrepresentations by officials of the government. This is a very difficult situation to be in, but McCormick is not embarrassed or deterred. He is a strong, obstinate man, who takes very little counsel of anyone and, although he has actually been accused of treason by his opponents, it is ridiculous to think that a man so independent and self-sufficient could be tempted to sabotage the American war in a hope that out of defeat he might arise like a Quisling, a Darlan or a Petain.

Has Had He is a very patriotic man and he held the view that this country should arm mightily and not scatter its weapons as fast as they were made along the battle lines of Britain and Russia. The sincerely patriotic isolationist formula, before Pearl Harbor rejected the contention that if Britain had fallen for the lack of this help, the Axis would have won last year and then would have attacked a still inadequately armed and complacent United States.

Frank Knox, who operates the Daily News, an evening paper, is a Chicagoan by adoption and his paper, too, was vigorously anti-New Deal until Pearl Harbor or not long before. But on the subject of war, he shared President Roosevelt's view of inevitability and so left his paper, where his investment is, to join up as secretary of the Navy. So, naturally, during the America First campaign, the party got very rough and McCormick was called a peace-loving knave and his co-believers were called warmongers.

Marshall Field has had luck. He is a kiver-to-kiver New Dealer but a new personality and without much force. When he started he had a beautiful issue, for he was invading the Tribune's monopoly of the morning field as a supporter of the President's war policy, or, as the Tribune called it, interventionism. Then, the existence of the Tribune's Japanese blasted his issue out of him. McCormick immediately bowed to the fact of war and there was no question of isolationism vs. interventionism any more.

He Won't Answer Back The Sun is still new and should improve but it is real. Silliman Evans, a Texas politician and reporter who opportunized himself into good spots under the New Deal, was given the task of whipping up a full-size, first-class paper with character, out of ingredients that followed the standard American pattern, which calls for a certain number of comics, columns and so forth but newspapers develop character, good or bad, by growth, as people do and here was the Sun, attempting to be adult the day it was born.

As a straight New Deal paper, the Sun probably will get some political favors from the administration and it obviously is trying to use McCormick into recognizing it as a rival or critic. But McCormick just ignores it and keeps blasting away at frivolities, mistakes and some of the policies of the government and the Sun keeps calling "Hey, I call you a louse. Why don't you call me something?"

This fuss is altogether too noisy and nasty and the people might some day tell themselves that all this newspaper war for news and have no right to make or break governments or whip them unnecessarily into lathers and dissension just because they are competing for business. But it has always been that way in Chicago. It is the damndest town.

Word Stories.

By W. Worthington Wells.

The long winter evenings are conducive to home study and self-improvement. Too many people seem to think that to do home work requires an elaborate library, additional books, correspondence courses and whatnots, and a considerable outlay of money. Some professional courses do require considerable equipment. But the study of words and their uses requires a dictionary, the newspaper you are reading and the desire to improve your vocabulary.

A modern newspaper is a veritable storehouse of knowledge. The editor takes most of it as a matter of course and neglects to point out to his reader the extent of the material it contains. Thousands of words are used daily, frequently as many as are used in a complete book. All the space in a newspaper is not devoted to current news stories, much is valuable knowledge that can be used by the average citizen.

Read your newspaper carefully, not just a cursory glance—and check with a heavy pencil the things you have found interesting and useful. Cut them out and make a file for them. All the newspapers clip several other papers and save the things they think are valuable; why don't you do likewise?

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MC GILL.

REGISTRATION DAY All day yesterday I saw them come to register their names; their residences, their ages, their places of birth, because their country had ordered it.

All day they came, white and black, to register for military service. There were those who could not write their names.

Who could not read or write. There were those who could scrawl their names but nothing else.

Some, who could not read or write, said so humbly. Some were ashamed.

Some were gruff, seeking to hide a grief at not being able to read or write. There were white men and black men who had not the simple gift of being able to write a letter or read a newspaper or a book.

It humbled one to be putting down their names, making an "X" and put after it the words, "His Mark." It shamed one, too.

One could feel some inner voice within the men saying to his country and the people in it: "You called me and I am glad to come. I do not quite understand what it is about, but I come gladly. I cannot read. They tell me the Japanese and the Germans are seeking to destroy this country. I would not like that. I will give my life to prevent it. I could not tell you how it is, but I love this country. It may be the stories I heard as a child. I may have been the dreams I had as a child, dead as ashes now, but still bright in what is left of my child's memory. I think this is a country of opportunity, too, even though I never got much out of it. It may have been my fault. I doubt it, but it may have been. You can see my hands. They are hard with toil. You can see my face. I have not had it easy. But I do not hold that against my country."

THE VOICE GOES ON— "It is just that I hope when this war is done and they start to rebuild the country into what it must be, that there will be some plan so that the likes of me will not come again, humble and grieving and forced to say I cannot write my name or read it when it is written for me. It is not pleasant to have someone say to me to make an 'X' and to show me how. And then to write my name for me. If a man cannot write his name, it is not really much of a name.

"So, I come to give you my name and let you write it for me. If my country tells me I must go, I will go, even though it is not very plain to me. I would like to know more about these Japs and these Germans. All I know is what people tell me. I try to figure out what to believe. And what not. It would be fine to read.

Military Rumors; Who Hears Them? Who Spreads Them?

printable or it wouldn't be on the wires.

Maybe it's because newspaper folk take no interest in gossip.

If John Q. Wigglesworth told Willard Cope, for instance, that he knew for a fact that Steevens K. Hamaneggs, prominent feather dealer, had just murdered his wife, three children and an aunt by inserting nitroglycerin in their breakfast cereal and then pushing them down the basement stairs.

Mr. Cope probably would respond: "Fine! Let's check up with the police and the coroner—and see what charge is on the police docket."

Still, and all, as old Jim Nevin used to say, I do disagree with our newspapers about their sticking so adhesively to official communications instead of using their eyes—or the reporters' eyes. Which applies mostly to afternoon newspapers. I worked on one until it was shot out from under me.

"Get the weather bureau," the city editor might say. "We want the forecast."

It would be "Fair and warmer, no change in temperature." And the reporter would write it like that. Though, if he'd looked out of the window he could have seen a rainstorm raging and his wife would call up to say the cellar was flooded.

Weather bureau abolished forecasts, more or less, in view of war conditions. But I can't see it has improved the weather to any marked degree. It's still as cold as a healthy dog's nose when I get up—and my bathroom makes me wish I'd been sewed up in red flannels last November—for the duration. It's been a nice winter, a pleasant winter, with few days of disagreeable wet and only a flick of snow. But gosh, how the coal bins have shrunk.

I've been waiting since November for a day warm enough to wash my dog and dry him out without risk of pneumonia. And the mistress of the manor insists the dog be washed in the bathroom. I'm developing an aroma which does not remind her of roses.

Tire Thieves
Some long sentences are being handed out by courts to automobile tire thieves—one defendant got an eight-year stretch the other day and the tire he lifted will be somewhat deteriorated by the time he can use it. Unless he gets a quick parole. So many do. But severe penalties have never

"CAN WE LOSE THE WAR?"

EDITORIAL IMPRESSIONS

Editor, Constitution: It is quite unusual for me to write a newspaper or magazine either condemning or commenting upon one of its editorials. Nevertheless, I am tempted to do so in this case.

I thought the editorial, which appeared this morning, entitled "Can We Lose the War?" was most impressive, factual and analytical than anything that I have read.

We have all tried to think that we were at war with all of the seriousness connected with it, but when it comes down to brass tacks, it still hasn't been driven home.

Indeed, we can lose the war. Even though there be only a most remote possibility of an invasion of our shores, defeat can, indeed, come in many other ways; even a compromise settlement would be defeat for the democracy.

PLEASE KEEP UP FIGHT FOR PENSIONS REPEAL

Editor, Constitution: Your paper is rendering a great service to the nation by the stand you are taking on the congressman's pension law.

That the purpose of the framers of this legislation was everything it should be is questionable, their effort to conceal the nature of the act by including it with other more necessary legislation was admitted lack of candor and forthrightness. The selection of this time when our very national security is threatened, as a proper time for any group of citizens to take active steps to provide for its own financial security at the expense of the public treasury is deplorable.

It is to be earnestly hoped that you keep up your fearless fight on this iniquitous legislation until it is repealed.

WILL S. DAVIS.

Toccoa, Ga.

In history deterred people from crime. Over in Merrie England they hanged people, in public, for almost anything from stealing a sheep to holding up an archbishop's coach on the highway and making him to fork over his jewels. Archbishops seem to have run to jewels in those days.

But sheep stealing and highway robbery: kept right on. And every week the populace had a grand free show watching a few culprits take a drop too much and swing—at the end of their rope.

We can't depend upon the police and the courts to stop tire thefts. Best we can do is to lock up everything we can lock—in the home garage and on the street. And let the dog sleep in the garage. Unless it's a valuable dog. In that case the invaders would probably take him—along with your tires.

Painted Limbs

Although fashion notes are not in my field (but have you seen my new hat?) I view with alarm a report that patriotic ladies are planning to save silk and rayon and nylon by painting their nether limbs.

As a student of the fine arts, including painting, sculpture and music, I cannot refrain from interest in all forms of beauty. Though some of them aren't.

As a mere observer, I have frequently been in doubt whether the lady across the aisle was wearing EXPEDITER—W. F. Wolf, regional manager, who will set up this week a seven-state division of the War Production Board here.

Car Tag Arrests Ordered Delayed

Motorists who still have their old 1941 license tags won't be nabbed for violating the law until the state motor vehicle division has had sufficient time to fill the flood of last-minute applications, the Governor said yesterday.

Although the Governor declined to extend the deadline—last night at midnight—he instructed Major John E. Goodwin, of the State Highway Patrol, not to start making arrests immediately.

A cold, rainy weather yesterday kept many tardy applicants away, but Tag Director W. L. Joiner predicted many of them had dropped their applications in the mails.

A few deadline-beaters were interviewed yesterday. They waited in line on why they put off getting their tags until the last day. One inmate applicant replied disgustedly: "I just acted a damn fool, that's about all I can say."

stockings or not. And if I couldn't tell, what difference was it? The hose of the last few years have principally been flesh color, except in the case of cooks and housewives.

It is, of course, none of my business whether American femininity goes in for paint instead of silk. But once you get the women started you don't know where they'll stop.

I dread an ultra-patriotic note. Stripes of red, white and blue. And perhaps crossed flags—the British Union Jack and the American Stars and Stripes. Camouflage is designed to conceal the shape of something. Stripes and stars and crosses and many colors would serve to defeat the design of nature.

And besides, we'd face a shortage of paint.

Perhaps I am growing more mellow, more kindly, as the years flit by. And making fewer folk mad.

Because Valentine's Day went by with only one in my mail, and a nice one at that. Anonymous, of course.

But I received none of those six-for-a-nickel comics. I saw few of them around the shop.

Maybe the former senders of the "comic" insults have mellowed, too. Or perhaps none of them had a nickel.

WPB Offices To Be Set Up By W. F. Wolf

Atlanta Will Be Headquarters for 7 States.

W. F. Wolf, regional manager of the bureau of field operations, War Production Board, arrived in Atlanta yesterday to set up a new office by the end of this week to consolidate field activities in Georgia, Virginia, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi.

A former executive of Swift & Company, packers, and the Andrew Jergens Company, cosmetics, Wolf explained the functions of the new headquarters:

"In the interests of sound organization and administrative procedure, it is necessary to have all field activities handled through the same administrative channels.

"This will help give faster, more efficient service in the field to business and industry, the need for which becomes more pressing every day as the war load picks up and as industries and plants convert to war work."

The existing field offices are expected to continue their present activities without any interruption whatever. Organizational details are being worked out with a view to more effective operation of the agencies of the War Production Board.

The new regional office will be located in the Candler building.

New Alabama Hits Waves in Gala Launching

Event Signaled by Knox as Beginning of 'War Era.'

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Feb. 16.—(P)—The new 35,000-ton battleship Alabama, which Secretary of the Navy confidently asserted was one of the "ships which will bring us victory," was launched here today as thousands cheered her down the ways into the Elizabeth river.

Knox described the launching as signaling the end of a defense era and the beginning of a "war era," as thousands, many of whom had fashioned her with steel and welder's torch, stood in driving rain beneath her towering bow to witness the impressive ceremonies.

Within less than four hours the giant was towed into a bittling basin where she will get her guns—nine 16-inch mounted on three turrets, plus latest type antiaircraft armament and secondary broadside batteries.

The 680-foot vessel, capable of more than 27 knots speed, was launched nine months ahead of schedule, and Knox declared that welding and other methods employed in her construction had decreased structural weight so as to add measurably to her gun, armor and ammunition capacity.

Major Frost's Duties Increased

More duties were loaded on the gold-leafed shoulders of Major Meigs O. Frost yesterday at the new United States Marine headquarters in Atlanta.

Orders from Washington elevated Major Frost to the post of acting assistant quartermaster in the southeastern area, which embraces 11 states. The major, a former New Orleans newspaperman, becomes assistant officer in charge of the southeastern area, as a result of this promotion.

First World War Ship Profits Are Upheld by Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(P)—A 22 per cent profit claimed by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation under 13 contracts of World War I was upheld today by the supreme court with the finding that, although it seemed high, it conformed to "the standard established by common practice" at that time.

The decision also held that in time of war the government could not only commandeer the physical plants of any recalcitrant manufacturer but could also draft the men to work these plants just as it drafts men to fight.

The Justice Department, seeking to void the Bethlehem contracts in litigation lasting more than 15 years, advanced as one ground the contention that the Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation was virtually coerced REDIGGING THE WELLS.

Dr. John W. Bradbury, editor of the Watchman-Examiner, New York, in his sermon last Sunday morning at Druid Hills, on "Redigging the Wells," the wells of prayer, Bible study, the family altar, fellowship, Christian testimony, observation of the Christian Sabbath, used this striking sentence:

"When we really pray, we really talk with God; when we really read the Bible, God talks to us; and it is my considered judgment that we are at a time now when we had best let God do most of the talking."

It was a telling sermon—the sort of preaching one's heart responds to, with a gratitude and hearty affirmation—the sort of preaching which convicts the sinner of the error of his way, and causes his heart to yearn for the better things of life, which only we may possess when we are in right relationship with God.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 10¢ and 25¢.

Church Placed In Midst of World Conflict

Dr. Bradbury Urges Clergy To Explain War's Spiritual Issues.

The church—and its ministers—must awake to their duty of explaining the spiritual issues involved in the world-wide conflict which is sweeping away honor, wealth, and life, Dr. John W. Bradbury, of New York, declared here yesterday.

Dr. Bradbury, editor of the Watchman-Examiner, oldest Baptist publication in the nation, put the Christian church right in the midst of the conflict, scoffing at the idea this is an Imperialistic war, or an economic war, for that matter. He termed it an ideological struggle involving the masses.

"This country needs 'corporate thinking,'" he emphasized. "I do not mean our people should think as some dictator tells them to think—but they must learn to think in terms of themselves but of the millions involved in the struggle."

"Pacifism has a strong hold on our Christian people," he continued. "There is a prejudice against facing the awful facts of our times. Pacifism is natural—because who would want to be counted as a belligerent?"

Replying to the suggestion that Christ taught pacifism, Dr. Bradbury shook his head and said, "Not so." And to back up his statement he quoted passage after passage to prove that Christ was militant when the situation demanded.

"Pacifism is an ideal creed," he said, "as far as it goes. But only that far."

Talks to Baptists.

Dr. Bradbury is in Atlanta to talk to Baptists about their war-time duties. He addressed the Baptist Ministers' Association yesterday morning and spoke at other meetings during the afternoon and night.

"I sincerely believe we can believe that God is on 'our side' in this war," Dr. Bradbury declared. "Because Nazism and Fascism are a reversion to the old Roman paganism. They have discarded overboard all the principles we think of as the principles of God."

Christian Implication.

In his morning address to the Ministers' Association, Dr. Bradbury said:

"This war has a definite Christian implication. It is not an Imperialistic war. It is not an economic war, though economics are involved. It is an ideological struggle, involving enormous masses of people who are compelled to think in the totalitarian form."

"Christianity is involved in this is a faith with an idea. An idea that human beings are free and competent under Almighty God in the service of their fellow men. The Anglo-Saxon people are committed to the idea of freedom because of their religious faith."

Dressed in pajamas and dressing gown at his hotel room, Dr. Bradbury was visibly shocked when Miss Carolyn McKenzie, The Constitution's girl photographer, entered to take his picture.

Oscar Strauss Jr. Luncheon Speaker

'Bundle' Drive Idea Will Now Work at Home

Founder Visits Here, Tells of New Movement To Aid Our Men.

"Bundles for Britain" has become "Bundles for America"—though shipments of garments to England will not be overlooked.

Mrs. Wales Latham, of New York, founder of "Bundles for Britain," was in Atlanta yesterday to talk about her newer movement—comforts and knitted garments for our own men in the service.

She recently retired from the presidency of "Bundles for Britain" to devote herself to America's nearer needs. She is on her way to Winter Park, Fla., where Rollins College is to confer upon her the honorary degree of doctor of humanity, in recognition of her work.

She was busy in organizing an Atlanta unit of "Bundles for America," with women knitting socks and sweaters for the lads in service and in the Army camps.

"We want donations of recreational material," she said, "equipment for kit bags and such things."

Mrs. Latham came with a good introduction to the south. She is a great-grandniece of Alexander H. Stephens, famous Georgian and vice president of the Confederacy.

Senate Group Approves Loans to Auto Dealers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The special senate committee surveying problems of small business endorsed today proposed legislation authorizing the RFC to lend automobile dealers money on "frozen" cars.

Chairman Murray, Democrat, Montana, indicated he would introduce the measure tomorrow. Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, a committee member, said the dealers would return the funds to the RFC as the automobiles are sold under a rationing plan.

Play Excerpt To Be Broadcast

An excerpt from the play "Titan," to be presented later in February by the Atlanta Junior League at several city and county schools, will be given in a program at 3 o'clock this afternoon over station WGST.

Mrs. Berrien Moore Jr. will interview Paul Carpenter Jr., director, and Mrs. Ruthford Ellis, chairman of the Children's Theater Community Council, which urged presentation of the play to divert the minds of children from the war stress.

On the broadcast, Mrs. Ellis will take the title role of the boy artist, "Titan," and Mrs. Douglas Connah will play "Catarina," his sister.

Churches Hear Mission Fields Still Are Active

Workers Withdrawn From Only Two Areas, 500 Methodists Told.

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.
Dr. R. L. Russell, representative of the general board of missions, yesterday told more than 500 Methodists of the two Atlanta districts that missionaries had been withdrawn from only two fields and that mission workers were still in 47 fields outside the United States.

Workers withdrawn had been assigned to other fields, and cost per year of missionary work was $7,000,000, he said. Meetings were held at the Atlanta Trinity church and the Marietta First church, where Methodists north of the Chattahoochee assembled. Identical programs, given at both sessions, were presided over by Dr. Wallace Rogers and Dr. E. G. Mackay, district superintendents.

The Rev. H. C. Holland, conference secretary, quoted Dr. Y. C. Yang, president of Soochow University in China, during the past five years, more completely won the people's confidence than during all previous years.

Mrs. R. H. McDougall and Mrs. T. Hamby, district secretaries of women's work in the Atlanta area, reported 87 women's auxiliary societies with a membership of 6,954, with a total payment of $26,806 for the year.

The Rev. W. S. Norton, executive secretary of Sunday schools, stated that 43 per cent of the schools in the North Georgia conference observed fourth Sunday offerings for world service last year, and made a contribution of $3,000 above that of the year before. The Rev. John Tate and the Rev. J. C. Callaway, directors of promotional work in local churches, reported 82 of the 73 charges in the Atlanta area have organized missionary committees and special schools of missions.

presumably were bolstering their forces there.

The Germans recently reported additional British naval units had arrived in the Mediterranean, and today Lieutenant General E. P. Quinn was appointed commander for the 10th army in Iran and Iraq.

Prime Minister Churchill admitted British difficulties in that area yesterday, however, when he said "the Mediterranean is closed" at the west end and British supply ships can make only three voyages a year around the Cape of Good Hope.

Axis claims also made it appear that a determined effort is being made to cut the communications of Malta, Britain's pinpoint island fortress which has been the greatest threat to German-Italian supply lines across the Mediterranean.

Today's Italian communique declared a British destroyer, patrol boat and seven merchantmen were sunk, and five cruisers, two more destroyers and eight more cargo vessels damaged in a combined sea and air assault upon a British convoy taking supplies to Malta.

With Malta subjected to many raids almost every day, the RAF there requires steady replenishment.

The British did not comment upon the Italian communique, but Cairo announced that two of several Axis torpedo planes which attacked a convoy in the central Mediterranean Sunday were shot down.

Churchill yesterday predicted that perhaps "another serious battle" would be fought soon in Libya, and Cairo headquarters today disclosed that British patrols were in contact with German-Italian troops and armored units along a 40-mile front from the coast inland.

The RAF placed the activity in the Gadd El Ahmar zone, 35 miles south of Timimi on the coast. Timimi is 80 miles west of Tobruk and 25 miles west of Ain El Gajala.

Apparently the patrols were only exchanging artillery fire and exploring each other's strength. Alert to the danger of shipping and plane concentrations in the Mediterranean, British airmen smashed heavily at Axis bases in Sicily.

Old State Statute Would Hit Loafers

Loafers had better find themselves a lonely tropical island unless they want to be run down by an ancient Georgia statute known as the "work or fight" law.

The Governor yesterday reminded sheriffs, policemen and other enforcement officers that there is such a statute and suggested they start using it.

"That's the best way to get 'em back on the farm to relieve the labor shortage," the Governor said. "If they can't work, then they oughta get in the Army."

He said the law carries a maximum misdemeanor penalty of 12 months in the penitentiary, six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Aussies Gird For Threat of Attack by Japs

Dictatorial Powers for Curtin During Crisis Seen.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Australia swiftly marshaled its power tonight to meet the approaching Japanese hordes in response to Prime Minister John Curtin's grave assertion that the fall of Singapore was this continent's Dunkirk.

The realistic residents of this vast outpost of empire were convinced that Australia may at any time face a large-scale attack by sea and air and they armed themselves for the test.

The problem was immense, the hour late and the stake vital. With a population less than that of New York state, the Australians had a continent almost as large as the United States to defend and many of their fighters, especially airmen, were deployed on the north African battlefields, half a world away. Other thousands were lost apparently in the desperate attempt to hold the great British base at the tip of Asia.

The war cabinet was understood to be prepared to cloak Curtin with dictatorial powers in the emergency. Large numbers of married men were to be called to the colors immediately.

"Everything we have, everything which belongs to us must now be mobilized," the tall Prime Minister told his countrymen. "The Battle for Australia demands what the Battle of Britain required. We must work and fight as we never have worked and fought before."

Parliament meets Friday after a cabinet session tomorrow. Large-scale movements of troops and aircraft already have taken place.

Fulton Aliens Are Slack in Registration

Only 106 of 391 Have Signed Up Thus Far, Livingston Says.

Fulton county's alien enemies—or, more particularly, unnaturalized nationals of Germany, Italy and Japan—might step it up a bit. It was revealed yesterday by Postmaster Lon Livingston, who has charge of the current compulsory federal registration for identification cards, that only 106 of the 391 persons in Fulton subject to the registration had complied with the requirements in the first eight days.

"There's only 13 days left," the official pointed out. "No one should take this registration lightly. The government allows until the end of February. Then aliens of the three countries we're fighting will be in a bad way if they don't have the identification cards."

Special quarters to shield them from casual eyes were set up in the northwest lobby of the Old Post Office building under the direction of Assistant Postmaster Frank A. Fraser February 9 when the effort began.

This is the fourth registration for Atlanta aliens. Previously they were required to go through similar registrations with the state patrol, the city and police and in the first federal registration of August-December, 1940.

S.S.S. STURDY HEALTH

There was a grimness about this first wartime draft registration since 1918—less of banter among men waiting in lines—that contrasted with the first roll call 17 months ago of those aged 21 to 35. The exact number enrolled will not be known for several days as reports must be forwarded to headquarters here for compilation. When it is determined, it will not, for military reasons, be made known.

However, officials reversed a previous decision today and decided to permit regional publication of state and local draft registrations. Still banned is publication of the names of men called at any time to military service.

A lottery to determine the order of liability of these men for a call to service will be held in mid-March. Questionnaires then will be sent them as a preliminary to classification as available for immediate service or deferred.

Bill To Be Introduced For Women Registration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Representative Joseph Clark Baldwin, Republican, New York, today told members of the National Women's party, long-time advocates of equal rights for men and women, that he intends to introduce a bill calling for national registration of women.

Sentiment for such a move has been expressed by some women leaders. In a broadcast last night Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said she regretted that women were not being registered along with men today.

Baldwin said a national registration was desirable to get a picture of the woman-power available for use in industry.

To this end, he said he intended to call for the registration of women from 18 to 65. They would be asked to list their training, occupations and capabilities.

Baldwin added that he intended to introduce his bill as soon as the measure to create a volunteer woman's auxiliary Army corps, now pending in the house, has been considered.

Army Lowers Physical Standards

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Army lowered physical standards today to make available for military service a larger ration of new draft registrants and also thousands of men who already have been given deferred classifications.

Materially reducing dental and eyesight requirements, the new standards were forwarded to local draft boards with instructions to reconsider the classification of all men deferred because of too few teeth or poor eyes.

Heretofore a minimum of six masticating and six incisor teeth has been required. Under the new regulations any man able to eat Army food, using either false or natural teeth, is made subject to a draft call for service in any branch of the Army.

Men with defective eyesight which can be substantially corrected by glasses also made eligible for general military service in all noncombatant branches.

On motion of the solicitor general, cases against C. T. Morrison, charged with involuntary manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident, were not pressed yesterday by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court. The charges grew out of the death of Mrs. Emma Powell in an automobile accident at Central avenue and Crumley street, S. W., April 30, 1941.

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy will be directing judge of the criminal divisions of the Fulton superior court during the March-April term, according to a schedule made up by the seven judges yesterday. Judge Virlyn Moore will conduct the second division in March, and Judge Hugh M. Dorsey will succeed him in April. During March Judge Paul S. Etheridge will direct the civil divisions and will be succeeded in April by Judge A. L. Etheridge. Judge Dorsey will conduct non-jury trials in March and Judge Paul Etheridge in April. Judge Walter C. Hendrix will continue on the bench in the domestic relations court.

Hosiery Firms To Cut Color Range Drastically

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Hosiery makers who used to compete for feminine favor with a wide array of hosiery shades have given "an encouraging response" to the government's request for color simplification, the War Production Board reported today.

One company indicated it would cut its range from 75 to four shades, the board reported, and four colors "seemed to be the total preferred by a large portion of the companies reporting."

160,000 More Georgians Sign Draft Cards

Young and Middle Aged Called in Third Registration.

Old Uncle Sam knows where to look this morning if he needs more help as the fights pile up.

He has on hand this morning a card index that will lead him to the front door of anybody fit to carry a gun, wield a pick and shovel, or do anything else the modern, streamlined Army needs. The old and the young shuffled past the desks in the selective service headquarters yesterday, getting themselves on record for any job the government needs filled until the Japs and the Germans are whipped to the point where they'll be willing to listen to reason.

160,000 Register.

Some 160,000 Georgians offered themselves for military service in yesterday's draft registration and the girls from the A. W. V. S. who had volunteered as registration clerks worked from early morning until late last night getting the names down on the government's cards and issuing each applicant a little white card that he can display proudly as proof that Uncle Sam, at least, feels he is fit for an important job.

That one little point meant a lot to many of yesterday's registrants. Trailing along the lines at each draft headquarters were important-looking, bald-headed captains of industry, with impressive paunches, who beamed their pride in the knowledge that the Army, at least, considers them physically fit.

Many Veterans.
They were the boys, 44 years old or thereabouts, who have been worrying for the last few years about the so-called span of life.

Most of them had served in the last war and as they swung confidently into the chair for the registrant's quiz, they proudly announced:

"Well, this is the second time I've done this—and I'm just as fit and ready as I was in 1918."

The young woman registrants would smile politely and the draft-tee would beam delightedly over the thought that someone, at least, considered him one of the nation's outstanding physical specimens and, at least, someone wanted him to handle a tough job.

All that, of course, will be merely a matter of opinion until the examining physicians can go to work on the boys who signed up yesterday.

Youth Gets Chance.

At the other end of the pole, were the very young—the lads who have celebrated their 20th birthday since the last registration.

They were just as proud as their elderly brethren, and yesterday their manhood yesterday became a matter of national record. The flow of draftees moved

Russians Sink 65 Nazi Transports in Baltic Sea

MOSCOW, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Russians reported tonight the Soviet Baltic fleet and its air arm have sunk 65 enemy transports laden with troops, equipment and supplies. One submarine was credited with bagging 38,000 tons of enemy shipping. The period of these sinkings was not given. Reports from Russia's vast and fluid front indicated that the Germans were continuing to throw in reserves of troops and equipment, which they had hoped to save for their spring offensive, lest the Red army wreck the chances of ever starting that drive.

The Russians claimed additional successes along most of the front, but named few localities in their communications and in no way delineated their present positions. They acknowledged Nazi counterattacks at several points but said that despite these the Red army offensive had carried to within 70 miles of the old Polish frontier, threatening Smolensk with wide encirclement.

Backed close to or actually driven out of their basic fortifications, the Germans seemed to be offering much stiffer resistance and to be regaining a measure of their mobility, for they sent tank units into some threatened sectors. The German tanks, however, operated in small groups, it was said, rarely more than a half-dozen in each. The Russians, too, brought up their tanks which had been comparatively idle during the worst of the winter.

The marriage of the former Miss Nancy Willstatter and Dr. Samuel Lewis Gordon was solemnized on January 31 at Sherry's, in New York city, with Dr. Nathan Perleman, of Temple Emanuel, officiating. A reception and dinner followed the wedding.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Richard Willstatter. Her gown was a copy of her maternal grandmother's wedding dress and was fashioned of white satin, trimmed with rosepoint lace. Her veil of illusion tulle was held to a cap of lace. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white violets, lilies of the valley and white lilies.

The bride's sister, Miss Madge Willstatter, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of rose taffeta and net. She carried a shower bouquet of mimosa and pansies. Earle Yancey Jr., of Atlanta, acted as best man.

The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Goldstein, of Atlanta; Mrs. Arthur D. Leidesdorf, Mrs. William F. Wolff, both of New York city, and Miss Betty Sue Ernest, of White Plains, a cousin of the bride. They wore blue taffeta and net gowns and carried bouquets like the maid of honor's.

The ushers were Arthur D. Leidesdorf, William F. Wolff, of New York city; John Lehrman, of East Orange, and Dr. Stanley Lane, of Fordham hospital.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Alfred Willstatter, wore a lame gown. The groom's mother wore a gown of aqua crepe studded with rhinestones.

Pearl Buck's Story of War in East Is Hottest Hollywood Seller

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16.—(INS.) The hottest book in Hollywood today is "Dragon Seed," Pearl S. Buck's new novel. In less than two weeks over 335,000 copies have been sold. I know I became so interested I read to the wee sma' hours and couldn't put the story down. Certainly it's Mrs. Buck's best book since "Good Earth"—and timely, since it shows what the Chinese suffered at the hands of the Japanese.

"Dragon Seed" seems likely to equal the sales. Bidding for the film rights is going on at a great rate and at this writing David O. Selznick and Paramount have the inside track.

Another of Mrs. Buck's stories, "China Sea," is being readied for production at R-K-O. No one in America knows China better than Mrs. Buck, who lived there so many years, and R-K-O is going to make it a big production.

Good thing Maureen O'Sullivan has a sense of humor. She never wanted to do the "Tarzan" roles at M-G-M., but once she started couldn't stop for she and Johnny Weissmuller became extremely popular as a team. Now Maureen has left M-G-M. and signed a two-picture deal with Sol Lesser for United Artists release. And guess what? One of her pictures will be "Tarzan." Remember, Sol had the rights to several of Edgar Rice Burroughs' stories and there was a discussion at one time between him and M-G-M. on "Tarzan."

ducer, has a habit of signing people and then letting them sit and sit—refusing to lend them to other studios or give up their contracts. Look at Jane Russell and Jack Beutel. They'll be playing character roles before their next movie assignment unless Howard relents soon. Their one movie, "The Outlaw," has never been released. However, to get back to Leo's R-K-O. deal, he's bringing R-K-O. two scripts—one for Cary Grant, which means Cary will have to bow out of Arnold Pressburger's "Tomorrow Never Comes."

MY DAY: Farm Exhibits Show War Influence

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY, Sunday.—Lincoln's birthday is a day I always like especially to celebrate in spirit, for to me Lincoln was not only one of our great presidents, but a very great man. It seemed very fitting to be, for that day, in Cornell at Farm and Home Week, for Lincoln was of the earth, earthy, close to the soil, and his spirit was akin to that of the rural people of our nation.

I am always interested in the exhibits at Farm and Home Week and found, as usual, ingenuity and initiative displayed in various ways. The blackout room for the farm home was very well arranged, but that is one thing the farmers can feel fairly sure will not often be used by them, for it is too costly to waste a bomb on isolated farms.

The thing which appealed to me was the converted truck, equipped in a way for which any farm family could provide. They had large milk cans placed in barrels, one surrounded by excelsior, and the other surrounded by newspapers for 17 hours in zero weather.

They had also arranged compartments on the fireless cooker principle, in which they could put large cans, drawers which could pull out and hold supplies, cooking and eating utensils, and a portable canned gas stove which could heat a large quantity of food. This truck could feed 150 people at an emergency meal in a very short time.

The book fair, the art exhibit by Ithaca artists, and the craft-work done primarily by women, were all interesting exhibits. I could have spent much more time seeing them than I was able to give to any one thing.

We drove to Syracuse in the afternoon, and were grateful for the clear weather. In spite of the cold, there was comparatively little snow and ice on the road.

We met with the defense council in the morning, and saw the volunteer bureau, established under the local defense council. They are getting on very well with their work and Mrs. Pennock, who heads the voluntary participation part of the civilian defense program for the state, has done a very fine job.

The same difficulties arise in every community, of course. Some volunteers do not take their duties seriously enough and fail in meeting professional standards. Some agencies are hesitant about taking on the training and placing of volunteers. By and large it seemed to me that if Syracuse and Schenectady, which I visited in the afternoon, are good examples of what is happening in the state, then we can be proud of the organization here.

The youth council in Schenectady is composed of a group of young people who are anxious to play their part in the life of their city. They held a most successful meeting.

I reached New York City late Friday night and kept a number of personal engagements yesterday and today.

Use Fruits In Desserts To Spare Your Sugar

By Sally Saver.

Here's a dessert-salad that won't ask much of your sugar ration—a mere 1 tablespoon of sugar to serve eight persons. The delectable and healthful sweetness is supplied by the sugar of sun-ripened dates. All fruits, especially the dried ones, are good sources of natural sugars and are excellent foods for children.

Frozen Date Salad.

- 1-2 cups dates
- 1-2 cup mayonnaise
- 5 tablespoons mild prepared mustard
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Few grains salt
- 1 tablespoon granulated sugar
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2 cups diced apple
- Lettuce

Remove pits from dates and cut fruit in small pieces. Combine mayonnaise, mustard, lemon juice, salt and sugar. Whip cream and fold into mayonnaise mixture, fold in dates and apples. Pour into freezing tray and freeze. Serve in squares on crisp lettuce with more dressing, if desired. Whipped canned milk can be used instead of the whipping cream if desired.

To Whip Canned Milk.

To whip evaporated milk, scald it for 5 minutes, covered, in a double boiler. Cool, chill thoroughly and whip. If desired, the milk can be boiled in the cans, chilled and whipped as needed, being sure to mark the cans as they are put into the refrigerator showing they have been boiled.

Another good winter salad is this:

- Apple-Celery Salad.
 - 1-2 cups cubed tart apples
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1 cup diced celery
 - 1-4 cup broken nut meats
 - Dash of salt
 - 1-3 cup salad dressing
- Chill ingredients, combine and serve on crisp salad greens.
- Questions about foods, cooking and serving will be answered by Sally Saver. Write or phone The Constitution or WA. 6585.

Girl Is Unwise to Overdo Apology

Dear Dixie:

I have been going with him for three months. That is, until two weeks ago, when I accused him of something that was not true and now he will not speak to me. He flirts with the other girls, but beneath it all I think he really likes me. I have made an apology and have written him a note, but he made no reply. He is very nice and I like him very much and to go with him. What action must I take and what can I do? WORRIED VERY MUCH.

By his silence I am inclined to believe that what you said about the boy is true. If it is not, then I think you have done about all you can to make amends for your statement. If he maintains the attitude that he has now, then I do not think he is worth worrying about.

The only action you can take would be to act as though you did not mind his flirting with the other girls and pretend to be interested and amused at his actions. I think you are pleasing his vanity too much by trying to make him understand that you made a mistake. If you have apologized to him that is all you can do. Keep the presents he gave you, unless he asks for them. I would suggest that you forget the love angle with him and try to win the boy back on the basis of friendship. Try to be with him

Better Working Conditions Bring Decrease in Cataract

By Dr. William Brady.

In a preceding talk about cataract we described the situation of the cataract—the crystalline lens, suspended in the interior of the eyeball, becomes opaque. Most common form of cataract is that which occurs in men and women alike along toward 65 or 70.

In normal individuals the crystalline lens begins to harden and assume a yellowish tinge at the age of 45 or so, becomes tougher and less transparent, and its shape then is more difficult for the focusing muscles to change for the purposes of accommodation. This difficulty of vision in mature adults is called presbyopia (old sight, far sight).

Ophthalmologists (eye physicians, doctors of medicine who have devoted themselves especially to study of the eye and its diseases) are the only authorities on this subject worthy of respect. It is a scandal and a tragic reflection on Yankee intelligence and honor that all sorts of charlatans, near-doctors and bunk merchants are permitted to prey upon the credulity of the laity in the matter of the treatment of diseases involving vision. A person may be a capable chemist, or a good nutritionist, or a dietitian, or even skilled in testing your eyesight and fitting you with spectacles, but that does not qualify him to advise about the treatment of cataract or other disease.

Here I wish to make it perfectly clear that I am NOT an authority, and I have no more knowledge of the nature, cause and treatment of cataract than a hundred thousand other doctors have. I merely endeavor to present here the gist of as much as possible when the crowd is around and don't be forever referring to the old argument. Forget it and when you talk to him, make it something timely and interesting. Let him know you like him, by letting him know you enjoy being with him and are interested in him and his welfare.

There are not nearly so many cases of cataract in proportion to population today as there were 50 or more years ago, thanks largely to the improved conditions under which people carry on near work—improved lighting, and more intelligence regarding the use of proper glasses to minimize eyestrain and conserve vision. Unfortunately for a good many victims, the importance of these and other preventive and protective measures is not recognized in time because the misguided individuals consult quacks or near-doctors instead of obtaining the advice of the eye physician, oculist, ophthalmologist, eye surgeon. Then, too, like many other half-informed persons, they buy glasses as they would hats, when they should never lose sight of the fact that the eyes are part of the human body, a precious part, and deserve the best medical care available whenever any treatment is required.

A Diagram To Simplify Piano Playing

Admiring friends—listening to you play! That day would come sooner than you think if you taught yourself to play the piano with a keyboard chart!

With this simple chart it's a short step from your first fumbling note to reading music quickly.

Simply place the chart behind the real keys and you can tell in a jiffy what key to play for each note.

You haven't many keys to learn—as you can easily see from looking at your chart. For the whole keyboard is just a repetition of the same seven keys.

You can even launch right out with popular tunes—skipping the difficult accompaniments. Just play the melody line with your right hand while with the left you play an accompaniment of simple chords.

Elaborate Costumes Parade At Mardi Gras Ball Tonight

By SALLY FORTH.

• • • CINDERELLA in glass slippers will dance at the Driving Club this evening! The occasion will be the brilliant Mardi Gras ball to be staged by the Rabun Gap Junior Guild for the benefit of the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school. Cinderella, costumed in gleaming white satin, will be portrayed by Dot (Mrs. William) Lyon, who will be escorted by her husband, Bill, dressed as Prince Charming in red velvet.

The ball will feature a fascinating story-book theme. Accordingly, guests will be costumed to represent characters from the pages of well-known books.

The president of the guild, Dot (Mrs. George) Bland Jr., will be Maid Marian from the pages of "Robin Hood," wearing an off-the-shoulder costume of green satin and brocade girdled in varicolored jewels, and featuring sleeves draped with yellow chiffon. Dot's flaxen hair, topped by a jeweled cap, will be braided with pearls. Her husband, George, will be dashing in a white wool Hussar uniform, trimmed in gold braid and worn with black boots. He will carry the sword which belonged to his great-great-grandfather, Captain George de Treville.

Maibelle Dickey (Mrs. Raymond) Barnett will represent Madame duBarry, wearing a hoop-skirted gown of bluish pink tulle—an exact copy of one of the famous lady's costumes! The gown will be trimmed with real lace and blue velvet ribbon, and Maibelle's hair will be piled high in the duBarry fashion, and topped by a wreath of sweetheart roses. Ray Barnett will attend the party as the hero detective, Elery Queen.

Mabel (Mrs. Bart) Gatling, as Marie Antoinette, will wear an exquisite gown of white net dotted with blue bows. Her authentic white wig will be massed with pearls.

Avril Brown will wear the breath-taking costume which he wore to a recent party held at Miami Beach's exclusive Surf Club. Depicting a visiting Chinese warlord, the costume includes long clawlike fingernails, a black satin robe with brilliantly colored dragon adorning its back, and shoes with four-inch soles—made by Delman especially for this costume!

Doctor Kildare and Nurse Mary Lamont, of movie fame, will be enacted by Jeanette Estes and Walter Cargill, while Adeline Barnett and Walter Watts will wear checkered gingham for their roles as Raggedy Anne and Raggedy Andy. Intensive preparations are under way to make each costume authentic. Henry Satterwhite, who will escort pretty Olive Bell Davis to the ball, will even blonde his locks to better portray Ashley Wilkes, of "Gone With the Wind" fame. He will wear a Confederate uniform complete in every detail.

Although costumes will prevail at the party, they are not compulsory. All guests, however, will attend the ball wearing masks, which will be discarded at the stroke of midnight.

Patrons for the ball are Mr. and Mrs. T. Guy Woodford, Mr. and Mrs. F. Graham Williams, Mr. John Mullin Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merriweather, Mrs. George Bland Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bolling Jones Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. Dozier L. Their program will consist of a skit from one of the most exciting scenes of "Titanic," the play which the Children's Theater group of the Junior League will present to several of the city and county schools later in February.

• • • WHEN the Primrose Garden Club meets today for luncheon at the home of Mrs. George Campbell on Seventeenth street, it will honor a group of new members. They are Mrs. Charles B. Terry O.K.'s Ott's Giants

Possible Flag Predicted by Ex-Manager

Power To Make Pitchers Look Good, 'Memphis Bill' Avers.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Bill Terry watched his successor, Mel Ott, put the New York Giants through their first baseball workout today, then declared "We've got a chance to win."

It was the first time since 1915 that Terry, dressed in street clothing, had sat on the sidelines while his team was starting spring practice. He was promoted this year to general manager in charge of the Giant farm system after serving as player and manager.

"It feels all right" to get out of uniform, he commented. "The team is definitely improved," he added. "We've got a chance to win if we'll start clicking. We have some players who can hit, and the team ought to make a lot of runs."

"This kind of power can make the pitchers look good."

Ott, the former boy wonder picked to fill the job once held by the great John McGraw, sweated out on the diamond along with nine other players who reached here in time for the drill—the first to be held by any of the 12 major league teams training in Florida.

Ott said he had hopes that a couple of the young rookie pitchers on the squad would develop into regulars, adding somewhat wistfully: "We could use another catcher and about two pitchers."

Harbert was two strokes up at the end of nine holes. Hogan cut the lead to one stroke at the 16th, lost a stroke there and two more at the 17th.

Harbert finished with a 72 and Hogan with a 76.

Purples Invade Canton For 'Big 6' Feature Tiff

Smithies Play G. M. A. This Afternoon; Marist, Typists in Night Tilt at Grady.

BY CHARLIE ROBERTS.
The Big Six prep basketball league race rose into the home stretch tonight with four quintets playing in town while league-leading Boys' High is in Canton trying to do something that few accomplish, whip the D. B. Carroll's Greensies on their home court.

This afternoon Tech High invades College Park for a joust with G. M. A. and tonight at 8 o'clock Commercial High's high-scoring machine runs headlong into the rejuvenated forces of Marist at the Henry Grady court.

Dwight Keith's Purple Hurricane must win at Canton if they are to protect their one-game lead over Coach Swede Phillips' Smithies, and their two-game edge over the Greensies, who will be fighting doubly hard because their chances for the championship will vanish with a loss to the leaders.

The Blacksmites have played two consecutive brilliant games and are due for a letdown at G. M. A., though they hardly can afford a lapse if they hope to keep their title hopes bright since only two more games remain for each club after tonight's clashes. Phillips' Smithies were little short of sensational in upsetting Canton last Friday, 31 to 28, in view of the fact Canton slaughtered the Ninth Street gang earlier in the year.

Coach Martin Kelly's Marist quint has become the sensation of the league with two upset victories in a row over Tech High and G. M. A. The Cadets didn't win a game the first half, but they are rolling now and can give any of the tussle when Perry Roberts, Jack Mays and Andy Marinos are hitting the baskets. Unless the Typists are hitting on all five they surely will find the Marist's plenty of ball club.

Next Saturday night at the downtown alleys at 7:30 o'clock the local bowlers will do their bit for the Red Cross by holding a special tournament, for which a small fee of $1 will be charged to enter. The entry fee will be turned over to the Red Cross as donations from the bowlers participating in this event. Cost of games will be extra.

To make it doubly attractive to all of the entrants, two beautiful red fox pelts, valued at $100 by a local fur expert, will be given as first prize. Second prize will be $5; third, $3, and fourth, $2.

All of the ladies will be handicapped in full from 120 and men will receive two-thirds handicap from 120. This will enable the ladies to compete on an equal basis with the men, who will be trying hard to win the first prize for the wife.

The furs will be on display at the downtown alleys from Tuesday morning until they are awarded the winner Saturday night.

Over 100 bowlers are expected to enter this novel tournament and all are requested to sign entry blanks as early as possible.

College Park Gym Opening Delayed

Action by the College Park city council at a special meeting last Friday night indefinitely postponed the opening of College Park's new $80,000 auditorium-gymnasium. The opening was originally scheduled for tonight with a big triple-header basketball program between the "B" teams, girls' and boys' varsity teams of Richardson High and Russell High.

The action was taken after a protest was made by an independent College Park team about the schedule.

The games, however, will be played tonight on the Russell High in East Point, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

All in the Game

BY JACK TROY

It's Different Now One of the laments voiced by players over night baseball has been the irregularity of meals; they have complained arc-light contests delay them in knitting into a slirion.

But now I wonder if they don't feel a little differently about the whole thing and count it a privilege they are allowed to continue in the game.

Elsewhere in this old war-torn world there are fellow Americans who aren't getting their steaks on time, or at all. They are fighting for democracy once again. A lot of times they'd be happy to settle for a hot dog and a bottle of pop. A good many meals are missed along the battle fronts.

Baseball has entered wholeheartedly into the war effort. Such holdouts as the game has today are being kept rather quiet. It doesn't make nice reading to see where Joe Whoozis wants 50 grand for his services—two hours and a half a day for less than six months—and Johnny Jumpup is risking his life for country and $21 a month.

It may have happened but no one has read where any big-name players have tried to avoid entering the service of their country. Baseball has done its part in this direction, too. And as time goes on, baseball will have as many men in uniform as any other branch of civilian endeavor.

Now and then I wonder why they pick on baseball so much, anyway. The game should be cheering up a favorable crowd psychology because of the patriotism of the sport's well-paid stars who cheerfully have traded their flannels for the khaki of Uncle Sam.

Cecil Travis sought no commission; he entered the Army as a buck private. And many another has given up a fancy salary for private's rank and pay. And have made no attempt to obtain deferment on any grounds.

Baseball hasn't endured for 101 years for nothing, so to speak. Any sport which survives a century of life needs no defense. There have been other wars . . . and baseball was in there pitching as today.

Roosevelt Days We long have argued with the Texas League over the manner in which a pennant is awarded. You see, while the Texas has the Shaughnessy system the same as the Southern, there is a different method in deciding champions.

After the usual 154 games are played, teams THEN are required to play the Shaughnessy to decide the pennant winner. In other words, results of the regular season don't mean a thing—except as regards the teams finishing in the first division.

Many's the time a club like Houston has been 16 or more games in front at the end of the season and promptly lost out in the play-off, and the fourth-place team became the pennant winner and Dixie Series entry.

But that doesn't seem so important now. What the Texas League has adopted in the interest of national defense IS important.

There won't be an all-star game this year. Instead, eight President Roosevelt Day games will be played and the gross receipts will be donated to the Red Cross. This will serve as the league's contribution to defense. It will be the Texas League's thanks to the nation's President for his letter describing baseball as an essential booster of wartime morale.

In Short Suppose baseball didn't continue? What, then, of the hundreds of players not eligible for draft and others who may not be called for some time? Baseball actually solves many an unemployment problem. For many other employes are likewise involved.

The annual Joe Rhodes dinner for the Georgia Tech football team given by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Strupper is to be an event of Friday night at the Capital City town club.

Regardless of what the experts say about Billy Conn's showing against Tony Zale, another fight with Louis promises a return of the million-dollar gate.

It develops that, as a two-year-old, Alsab made a sorry showing in Florida. In fact, the horse didn't get going on a sensational career until the Joliet at Lincoln fields, Chicago. The horse can run—as attested by the fact that he holds the record for the fastest mile ever run by a two-year-old. He broke many records and whipped every good horse he ran against in 1941.

Jackets Rally In Second Half For Brief Lead

Hearn, Johnson, Lewis Lead Mundorff's Five at Lexington.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 16.—(AP)—In a hectic second-half battle that saw Georgia Tech come from way behind and momentarily hold the lead, Kentucky squeezed out a 57-51 basketball victory tonight.

A large assemblage of state legislators, headed by Governor Johnson and United States Senator Chandler, saw the Wildcats end their Southeastern Conference schedule with their second triumph over the Yellow Jackets, who ran up the second highest score of the season against the Ruppmen—two points off the tally they made in the first meeting with Kentucky.

Jimmy Hearn, Will Johnson and Carlton Lewis led the charge that brought Tech from a half-time deficit of 20-32 to a 44-43 advantage midway in the second half. But there Kentucky steadied and forged ahead never to be behind again.

Marvin Akers, of Kentucky, was high scorer with 18 points. Mel Brewer killed 11. Tech's Hearn and Johnson racked up dozen points apiece and Lewis registered 11.

City Basketball

WALTHAM CITY LEAGUE.

Central Cafe won the 1941-42 Waltham City League championship last night at Warren Sports Arena by defeating a Watling General, 27-25.

In a hair-raising tilt that was in doubt until the final whistle.

The win gave Central a clean slate in league competition, as they chalked up seven straight wins in both the first and second halves.

Watling General, who finished second in the first half with six wins and one loss and placed in the No. 2 spot in the final half with five victories and two reverses.

Dixie continued to show plenty of strength in its game with Erikson, winning, 23 to 29, behind the steady shooting of Wain, Walcott, Erickson and Taylor. Nat Collins, Erikson's last little forward, was high for his team with 12 points.

Ball Street downed Big Town, 39 to 24, as McDonald scored wind, while Gaston was best for Big Town, tallying eight.

Royal Crown lost by forfeit to Georgia Power when it was unable to place five men on the floor. The Crown, using several District players, scrimmaged the Powermen and finished on the long end of a 20-10 score.

Tech-Bulldog Thriller Looms Here

ELMER LAMPE.

Georgia Team Plays Crackers, Oglethorpe

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The University of Georgia baseball team, runner-up to Alabama last season in unofficial Southeastern Conference standings, trims its schedule to eight league games this year—four against Georgia Tech, three against Auburn, and one against Florida.

The Bulldogs won eight and lost two last season for second place. Alabama took the championship with 13 victories and two defeats.

All-Old, Georgia meets seven opponents in 17 games, starting with Michigan State in Athens March 30-31, and including the Atlanta Crackers, Clemson, and Oglethorpe.

Returning lettermen will give the Bulldogs a veteran infield with Leonard Parker, catcher; Van Davis, first base; Charley Anderson, second base; Bobby Moore, third base; Captain Nub Welch at shortstop. The outfield has only one letter-winner returning—Jim Todd.

Walter Ruark and Cliff Kimsey, veterans of the 1941 team, top the list of pitchers. Others are Joe Forehand, a reserve last season; Elmer Zorn and Rivin Stewart, transfers from junior college, and Slim Hill, sophomore.

One of the brightest sophomore prospects is Charley Tripp, a member of the football squad, who is a combination catcher-first baseman-outfielder. Waldo Yeomans, junior college transfer, is another outfield prospect, along with John Paul Jones, 1941 reserve, and Dick McPhee, sophomore footballer.

March 30-31, Michigan State at Athens; April 2-4, Auburn at Athens; April 6, Atlanta Crackers in Athens; April 7, Clemson in Athens; April 10-11, Oglethorpe in Athens; April 14, Clemson at Clemson; April 17, Auburn at Auburn; April 20-21, Oglethorpe in Athens; April 24, Florida at Gainesville; May 1-2, Georgia Tech in Athens; April 5, Georgia Tech in Athens.

Bulldog Trackmen

Slate 4 Dual Meets.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The University of Georgia announced today a track schedule of four dual meets, in addition to the team's usual competition in the Southeastern A. A. U., and Southeastern Conference meets.

Coach Spec Towns is expected to build his team around Lamar Davis, sprinter and broad jumper, the only Georgia contender gaining a place last season in the conference meet at Birmingham.

Davis will compete in the 100-yard dash, in which he placed fourth; the 220 and running broad jump.

Women Golfers

Play at Candler

The Metropolitan Women golfers will play Wednesday morning at the Candler Park Golf course.

Play starts at 10 o'clock. Winners in each division have choice of prizes, including defense stamps.

Mrs. Joe Varela, chairman of the tournament committee, will be in charge.

Camilli Accepts

Dodger Contract

BROOKLYN, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Dolph Camilli, the swarthy slugger who led the Brooklyn Dodgers to a National League pennant last year, signed his 1942 contract for a probable $20,000 today at a hotel-room conference with President L. S. McPhail.

Their agreement, which was followed in a little while by the signing of Pitcher Curt Davis, ended what might have been the most formidable holdout struggle in the senior circuit.

Camilli has been a rugged individualist in his salary aims often in the past and his feat in leading the league with 34 homers and 120 runs batted in last year, as well as his selection as the most valuable player, gave him some talking points this time.

Celtics To Meet Their Match

When Rough Stuff Starts

If the rough, burly and powerful New York Celtics succeed in outscoring Kautsky's All-Americans Thursday night in the South's greatest professional game of all time at Sports Arena, they'll do it the hard way.

Here is a game which the Shamrocks cannot expect to win with their notorious roughhouse tactics, such as they employed in subduing the Detroit Eagles here recently. The Eagles were a young club, unwise in the tricks and means of fouling which feature the Celtic performances.

But not so with the Kautskys. Here is a team which knows all the answers, smartened up by years of play in the knock-down, drag-out National League. If and when the Celtics, led by John Pelington, 238-pound center, start something, they won't be so sure they can finish it.

In the first place, the Celtics

State Title at Stake in Cage Battle at Jacket Gym.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

There won't be any championships, except the state, riding on the Tech-Georgia basketball game here Thursday night but a typical Jacket-Bulldog thriller is promised.

They don't go in for state championships very much in collegiate circles so the blood-and-thunder contest can't be blamed on titular hopes. However, no punches will be pulled as the 10 youthful athletes give their all against their ancient rivals.

The Yellow Jackets, rapidly improving in the art of Roy Mundorff's fast-breaking offense, will be home-court favorites over their arch enemy from Athens town.

But Elmer Lampe's lads expect to make a battle of it and are doing some figuring on an upset. But their chief hopes for a victory over Tech still lie in the return engagement to be played Saturday night on Georgia's home grounds.

Georgia's Bobby Moore and Buddy Roland will match their ability to get points against Tech's Carlton Lewis, "Boneyard" Johnson, Dave Crosby, Gene Snyder and Jimmy Hearn. The Bulldog pair are higher in the conference scoring race than any two of the Techs but Lewis, Johnson, Crosby, Snyder and Hearn plus Buck Stevens and Jake Lance are a lot more scorers than Moore and Roland plus occasional help from Rusty Sproull.

Georgia would have been all right this season if George Poschner had not been out all year and Dick McPhee had been out most of the time. But the former has played in only two games and McPhee not at all. The services of these two footballers would have transferred the Bulldogs from a hard-scraping but only fair team into a good one, capable of playing most anybody in the league.

On the other hand, Tech started off slow and had difficulty winning a conference game at the start of the season. But the Jacks have gone forward by leaps and bounds and hold record over Auburn, Tulane and Vanderbilt. Georgia has beaten Florida three times for its only league victories.

Game time is 8:30 o'clock.

Bulldogs Win Fourth Game In S.E.C. Race

Bobby Moore Sinks 8 Points, Fails To Take Conference Lead.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 16.—Georgia won its fourth Southeastern Conference basketball game of the season here tonight, tumbling a patched-up Mississippi quintet, 36 to 27, but Captain Bobby Moore, brilliant Bulldog guard, failed in his effort to take over the S. E. C. scoring lead.

Moore, trailing Frank Mancel, of Auburn, by 11 points through games of last Saturday, could register only eight in tonight's tilt and is three points back of the pace-maker.

Georgia plays Tech two games before ending the season Saturday night, but Auburn has four more games in the conference, so Moore's chances to win scoring honors for the season are very small. Ole Miss, using football players "picked up" simply for the trip to Georgia, was never in the game against the Bulldogs, who held a 23-to-14 lead at half-time.

The game was rough and tumble with plenty of contact. But not a man on either side was put out for committing four personal fouls. Georgia was penalized 11 times and Ole Miss 10.

Bud Roland, diminutive Bulldog forward, was high scorer with 12 points, 10 of them made in the first half. For Ole Miss, Larry Hazel, stumpy forward, led the way with 11 markers.

Diz Dean Gives Up

Comeback Notions

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean said today he had given up any comeback notions.

The ex-National League pitcher said he did not come to Hot Springs to have his pitching arm worked on.

"I'm just here to visit some of my old stomping grounds again," Dean said. "Nobody is going to work on my arm. I've given up any comeback notions."

And then he added:

"If it did happen to pitch again it would be for the Chicago Cubs. I have a standing offer to come back there any time."

Challened Runs Second

To Ponty, 12-1 Longshot

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—William L. Brann's Challenged ran second to Frances D. Scully's Ponty, a $25.50 to $2 longshot, in a $1,400 mile and a quarter race at Hialeah Park today.

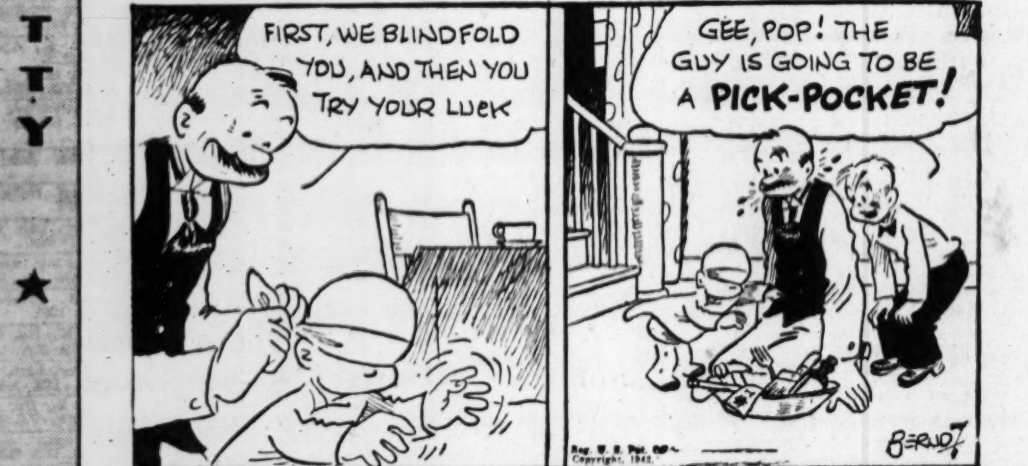

The winner was out in front by six lengths after Challenged pulled close in the backstretch, dropped back to last, ran wide and finished in the middle of the track. Challenged beat out Chippy Sea by a nose in a photo finish.

Ponty paid $5.60 to place and $3.90 to show. Challenged's place and show prices were $2.70 and $2.30, while Chippy Sea returned $5.30.

It was the second time of the winter that Challenged finished second. A crowd of 10,814 saw the race.

War May Revive State 'Ghost Town'

The war may revive what has been described as a "ghost town" at the Georgia State Teachers' College at Statesboro.

Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System, went to the Statesboro institution yesterday to make a survey of its facilities and determine whether some unit of the Army or Navy could be established there.

Students became greatly concerned when their enrollment dropped from more than 500 to slightly more than 300 and warned that the college fast was becoming a "ghost town." They attributed the major part of this decrease to the discharge of President Marvin S. Pittman by the Governor and State Board of Regents.

Chancellor Sanford is expected to remain at Statesboro for "two or three days," the State Board of Regents reported yesterday.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

The only spy that got his needings was scalloped by a Broadway taxicab. I'm taking off the radiator ornaments on taxicabs and putting on gun sights.

But we would have to teach the boys to tell friend from foe. When Winston Churchill was over here around 1936 he was lowbripped by a taxicab on Park avenue in the high-rent district.

We have been softer than face powder when dealing with spies and saboteurs. We should take female spies and make them pin boys in a bowling alley. Then we should bowl with hand grenades.

Either that or make them run the taxicab gantlet up Fifth avenue from Washington square to Central Park.
